Genocide Revealed

Medium Synopsis

Genocide Revealed, a feature documentary by award-winning filmmaker, Yuriy Luhovy, examines Moscow's efforts at destroying Ukrainians as an independent nation.

Focusing on the 1932-1933 forced famine in Soviet Ukraine engineered by Stalin's regime, the accompanying executions, repressions and arrests of Ukrainian intellectuals and general population, the film depicts a human tragedy hidden for decades by the Communist regime.

Stalin denies the famine-genocide. As starving people attempt to flee a decree forbids any travel outside Eastern Ukraine. Borders are shut. Whole villages are confined by Red Brigades, with all foodstuffs confiscated. Even collective farmers die, as impossible requisitions are made by the regime. Hunger kills 25,000 a day. Soviet authorities destroy most records. Millions were deliberately starved to death.

Based on testimonials of survivors; commentaries by historians; rare stock shots of the period; declassified Soviet archival documents; this 1hr 15min. documentary captures the broad scope of the genocidal policies against the Ukrainian people in the 20th century.

In an effort to cover up the Genocide, the depopulated areas are replaced by train-full of Russians and other nationalities. The people of Ukraine still suffer from the consequences of this catastrophe. Today, the Russian language remains the dominant language in areas where the famine was artificially created, splitting Ukraine politically.

Oscar-nominated actor Graham Greene narrates Genocide Revealed

Canadian actor Graham Greene (right) recording the English narration for "Genocide Revealed" with the film's director Yuriy Luhovy in Toronto's Spence-Thomas Audio Post Studio.

Montreal, Quebec, Canada. January 3, 2011. Graham Greene, an Oscar-nominated Canadian actor, is the narrator of Genocide Revealed, the English language version of the documentary film Okradena Zemlya on the 1932-1933 Famine-Genocide in Soviet Ukraine.

"I am extremely happy and honored that actor Graham Greene agreed to record the narration for Genocide Revealed," said the film's director Yuriy Luhovy. "He has an exceptionally rich and amazing voice so well-suited for this documentary. He intuitively understands and has empathy for a people and a nation aimed for destruction, as he, himself, is of proud Native American origin, born on the Six Nations Reserve in Ontario. I am thrilled to have him part of this project", stated Luhovy.

Graham Greene is one of the most recognizable Native American actors working on stage and in film and television in Canada, England and United States. He is known for his roles in films such as Dances with Wolves and Thunderheart, as well as television productions of L.A. Law, Northern Exposure and as host of the TV program Exhibit A. He has had roles in 13 stage performances and 40 movie and television productions and has received the Gemini's The Earle Grey Award for Lifetime Achievement.

As with all his documentaries, Luhovy prefers voice-overs to subtitles allowing viewers to be drawn into the film, making it easier to follow the story. He places the English narration so that portions of the original Ukrainian is always heard and appreciated.

Genocide Revealed will be released in two formats: a 75-minute version and a shorter 52-minute version intended for schools and television release. This 1932-1933 Famine-Genocide documentary on one of the 20th century's greatest crimes is based on compelling eyewitness accounts and on the newest archival material made accessible after the fall of the Soviet Union and Ukraine's regained independence.

To organize a premiere of the soon-to-be-released Genocide Revealed documentary, or to support this project, please contact Yuriy Luhovy, MML Inc, 2330 Beaconsfield Ave, Montreal, Quebec, H4A 2G8, Canada; e-mail: mmlinc@hotmail.com; tel. 514-481-5871 or visit the Web site www.yluhovy.com.

"Genocide Revealed" named "Best Historical Film"

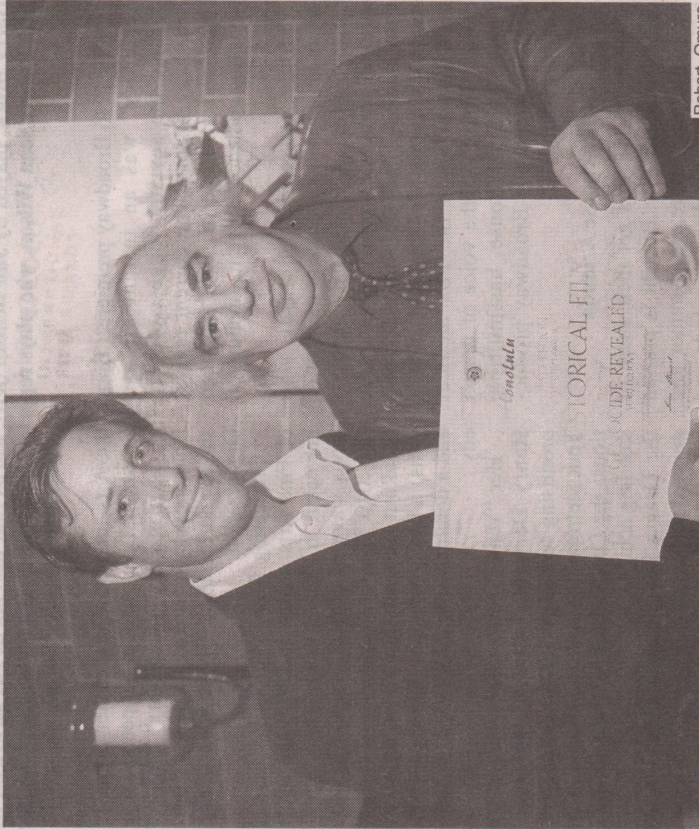

MONTREAL – The 75-minute feature documentary "Genocide Revealed" about the Kremlin-engineered genocide of the Ukrainian nation recognition won as "Best Historical Film" at the Honolulu International Film Awards.

The award was presented to the film's director, Yuriy Luhovy, on the 20th year of the awards competition whose mission is "to recognize the finest in independent cinema." Over 5,000 entries in various categories were received from around the world.

The formal presentation took place on May 7 during the awards banquet at the famous Ilikai Hotel in Honolulu (where the "Hawaii 5-O" series was launched.) Mr. Luhovy accepted the award "in memory of the victims of the Ukrainian genocide, so that they may never be forgotten."

Following the banquet, many came up to the filmmaker to inquire about the film's production and the 1932-1933 Holodomor – of which they heard for the first time.

An extended interview with Mr. Luhovy was conducted by Lev Hura, producer of the community television program in Honolulu. The program focuses on activist issues important to the island of Hawaii. Mr. Hura, and his wife, Marika, are very active in the community in Hawaii and in the small congregation of the St. Sophia Ukrainian Catholic Mission in Honolulu.

Mr. Hura is finalizing a one-hour television special on the making of "Genocide Revealed." The special will be aired several times. It will reach tens of thousands of viewers in the state, very few of whom know of the Stalin regime's crimes against the Ukrainian nation.

"Winning 'Best Historical Film' and having the documentary receive international exposure will help bring deserved awareness to one of the 20th century's greatest tragedies," Mr. Luhovy commented.

A shorter educational version of the documentary is being made for school use. Montreal, Quebec, Canada. April 13, 2011. The feature documentary film Genocide Revealed won first prize — the Albert Statuette — at the 2011 Litchfield Hills Film Festival (formerly Kent Film Festival) for Best Documentary. Held at New Milford, Connecticut Apr. 7-10, the prize was presented at the Awards ceremony on Apr. 9 by founders and directors Frank and Patrice Galterio.

The Festival showcases films in various categories, creating a platform for filmmakers to reach the broadest possible audience.

Genocide Revealed had its festival public screening on Apr. 9, followed by a question-and-answer period with the film's producer-director Yurij Luhovy. Participating also was Adriana Luhovy, camerawoman on the film's production. Present in the audience was Lana Babij of the Connecticut Holodomor Committee, who has been working tirelessly with her committee members to include the Soviet-induced Famine-Genocide of Ukraine (in 1932-1933) in the

"During these international festivals, Genocide Revealed is being seen by the general public, most of whom learn about the Holodomor for the very first time. There are no monetary prizes for winning but a win for this documentary helps spark more public awareness. Winning for Best Documentary generates more interest in the subject and helps get this story into the mainstream", said filmmaker Luhovy.

Montreal, Quebec, Canada. March 16, 2011. The historical feature documentary Genocide Revealed produced and directed by Yuriy Luhovy has won the prestigious Award of Merit at the Indie Fest International Festival held at La Jolla, California.

The 75-minute documentary is narrated by Oscar-nominated actor Graham Greene and voiceovers are by actress Jill Hennessy and actor Lubomir Mykytiuk.

"How amazing! I am very much honored that Genocide Revealed has won at the Indie International Film Festival. This award helps give international awareness to a genocide that has been deliberately silenced for too long. I wish to thank everyone that helped support the making of this film," said filmmaker Yuriy Luhovy.

Genocide Revealed examines one of the greatest tragedies of the 20th century — the 1932-1933 man-made Famine-Genocide in Soviet Ukraine engineered by Stalin's regime, and the accompanying decimation of the Ukrainian intelligentsia and destruction of Ukraine's historical past.

The Indie Fest "recognizes film professionals who demonstrate exceptional achievement in craft and creativity, and those who produce stand out entertainment or contribute to profound social change and compelling documentaries. An international awards competition, entries are judged by highly qualified professionals in the film industry," said Indie Fest Chairman Thomas Baker, Ph.D.

"In winning an Indie, Yuriy Luhovy joins the ranks of other high-profile winners of this internationally respected award," Dr. Baker further stated. "The Indie is not an easy award to win. Entries are received from around the world. The judges were pleased with the exceptionally high quality entries. The goal of the Indie is to help winners achieve the recognition they deserve."

Genocide Revealed will receive The Indie statuette, which is manufactured by the company that makes the world's most prestigious and celebrated awards — the Oscar, Emmy, Clio and MTV Video Music Awards.

Yuriy Luhovy is presently making a shorter version of the documentary (52½-min.) for educational purposes.

Genocide Revealed Wins Film Festival of Colorado's Best Eye-Opener

Montreal: The feature documentary Genocide Revealed by filmmaker Yurij Luhovy had just won two more awards at the Film Festival of Colorado (TFFOC) in Arvida, outside of Denver, Colorado. The film festival's director Bob Webb presented Genocide Revealed with the Festival's Special "Eye-Opener Award" and after voting conducted by the audience, the second award titled "Best Audience Award" for best historical documentary. The film award winners were announced in The Archive Room of the Arvida Library during a brunch on Sunday, June 26.

The film festival "highlights filmmakers and quality filmmaking both within Colorado and outside of Colorado area" and is held every last weekend in June. This year's festival organizers included Helen Trencher, Rodman Schley, and Timothy Nyman. The festival provides three days of film showings including documentaries from around the world.

Representing the film's director Yurij Luhovy, who was unable to attend the Film Festival of Colorado Awards Ceremony, were Nadja Myronenko and Katherina Matiaszek-Bender of the Colorado Ukrainian Language and Culture Group in the Denver/Boulder area of Colorado. "We were thrilled when it was announced Genocide Revealed won two of the Film Festival awards. Many viewers were totally unaware of the Holodomor and they found the documentary very powerful and informative. People came up to us and commented the film was captivating, worth seeing, great film, revealing and enlightening. We learned a lot, met some wonderful folks and will treasure the memories", said Katherina. A second showing of Genocide Revealed is planned in Denver for Saturday, September 24 at 2pm, venue to be confirmed. The feature documentary Genocide Revealed has now won 10 international awards.

Yurij Luhovy contacted Nadja, the organizer of the Colorado's Ukrainian Language and Culture Group, to inform them that Genocide Revealed was part of the Official Selection of the Festival and was entered into the Festival's competition.

This summer, the documentary Genocide Revealed has been included at University of Manitoba's Summer Institute "Social Justice-Pedagogy-Technology" course taught by Prof. Denis Hlynka and Prof. Orest Cap, exploring "the meaning of social justice, human rights, genocide and totalitarianism within the context of two case studies" including the Ukrainian famine-genocide.
